INTRODUCTION

INTRODUCTION

This book is a collection of the most interesting and valuable papers which have appeared in the English journals and reviews since the year 1840. It is intended to be a complete and accurate record of the progress of thought and science in the various departments of human knowledge. The selection has been made with great care and judgment, and the arrangement is such as to show the connection and development of the different branches of study. The volume is divided into two parts, the first containing the papers on the physical and mathematical sciences, and the second containing those on the moral and political sciences. Each part is further subdivided into sections, and each section contains a list of the papers which it comprises. The papers are given in full, and are accompanied by a short notice of the author, and a brief statement of the subject-matter. The volume is a valuable addition to the library of every student of science and literature.

I.

THE custom of giving rings as a personal memorial is, as every student of early Wills is aware, as old as the making of Wills themselves. At first a legacy of intrinsic value to near relations, in the course of time the gift of a ring becomes the especial recognition of friendship or services required of executor and overseer. The unfortunate King Richard II. in making his Will, on the eve of that journey to Ireland, from which he returned to find his kingdom in the hands of another, left "one golden ring" to each of the five bishops and four great nobles he named his executors. Two hundred years later William Shakespeare, in the well known Will signed at Stratford on New Year's Day (25 March 1616), gave and bequeathed "to Hamlet Sadler 26<sup>s</sup> 8<sup>d</sup> to buy him a ring," and made similar bequests to three other Stratford friends, and to three of his "fellows," Burbage, Heming and Condell. In the 16th century the custom of giving rings grew apace; sums of money were left to be bestowed in rings and distributed to friends unnamed, and such bequests are found as the following from the Will in 1648 of Jaspar Despotin, a foreign physician settled at Bury St. Edmunds, "ten rings of gold to be made of the value of twenty shillings a peece sterling with a death's head vpon some of them within one moneth after my deptime and to be disposed of amongst my friends as my executrices shall thinke meet."

From the plain ring of gold of early times the Mourning Ring had by the middle of the 17th century assumed certain features of a distinctive character, and it is at this period that it becomes the "Memorial" Ring of the present collection; that is to say, a ring bearing a distinct inscription in memory of one who had departed. Indeed, the increase, if not the origin, of Memorial Rings may be said to be due to the rings made for horror-stricken loyalists, and inscribed to the memory of King Charles with such inscriptions as: "Emigravit Gloria Angli: Ja: the 30 1648"; the earliest ring in this collection bears a date within four years of the king's death.

The custom of giving rings spread rapidly, and the numbers given soon became very great. Pepys records receiving several, generally in his official character, one such instance will suffice. On March 29, 1669, he writes: "At Greenwich I come to Captain Cocke's where the house full of company at the burial of James Temple; here I had a very good ring which I did give my wife as soon as I come home." At his own death in 1703, 123 rings of various value were given away, only eight of which were to near relations. Another significant instance may be taken from the diary of Ralph Thoresby, the historian of Leeds, "15 April 1702. Afternoon at the funeral of my excellent and dear friend Dr Thomas Gale, Dean of York, who was interred with great solemnity; lay in state, 200 rings (besides scarves to bearers and gloves to all) given in the room where I was which yet would not contain the company."

In the following pages all references in Wills that have been found to Mourning Rings have been given, a few of special interest may be quoted here. It was often customary for the testator to refer to separate lists of persons to whom rings were to be presented, these lists are not always found with the Wills; two are given: William Reynolds (No. 349) names 73 persons, including the ringmaker, and George Hunter (No. 868) gives a list of 36 rings. Mrs. Elizabeth Edwards (No. 47) names her relations, to whom she gives "a ring to be enamelled with the day of my death, and marked E. E. in them severally to be of the value of a Guinea." It may be remarked that, though the rings are enamelled, the initials and date are in accordance with the older custom, engraved inside. Thomas Blake (No. 409) wishes his rings to be "of one guinea value and to be made by Mr Jones." The "immensely proud" Sir Samuel Prime, King's Serjeant-at-Law (No. 529), recommends to his son "to consider of delivering fashionable Mourning Rings of the Value of one Guinea each unto every such person as I shall mention or describe in a List of Names," and we note that the "fashionable" ring was of plain gold enamelled with the name and date of death. Of another mind was another Serjeant-at-Law, James Foster (No. 602), who desires "No Rings to be given but to my Children." The Rev. Daniel Sandford (No. 595) leaves the most precise instructions for every particular of his burial and memorials; the ring to be given is to be "a neat Mourning Ring four pennyweight and an half of Gold without the Enamel the Pattern of that I had for my Mother or some neater Pattern so that the Letters may be large and bought of the very maker and he to be a good hand." William Masterman (No. 708) apologises for possible neglect "It may happen from want of recollection I may have omitted the names of persons to whom I might have wished in point of respect to have paid the same compliment of Rings, My Desire is that my Executors . . . make good any such omission." Sir James Sanderson (No. 901), an ex-Lord Mayor of London, is typical of the views held on such rings during the last years of the fashion, when he desires to give "good and Substantial Mourning Rings" to the Court of Aldermen and others; and the rings given were of good weight and hall-marked.

II.

IN the descriptive Catalogue that follows, the rings have been arranged in strict chronological order, and in this way the general change in form and the prevailing fashion at any period can easily be ascertained. Two rings only in this collection are of silver, and these commemorate King George I.  (No. 43), and his distinguished subject John Gay, the poet (No. 72).

All the others are of gold of varying degree of fineness, and for form and ornamentation may be briefly divided into four periods. The earliest period may be taken as ending with the reign of Queen Anne. During this period the rings are as a rule plain gold or gold enamelled in patterns that repeat the accepted emblems of death: skeleton, spade and pick, hour-glass, cross-bones, etc., as may be seen in No. 30,  and the inscription is engraved deeply on the inside of the ring as in No. 4. There is seldom a separate head or bezil, but in earlier examples it took the form of a scull as in No. 5, or a small box covered with crystal as in the ring made in memory of Queen Anne (No. 14).

This period was followed for some sixty years by one in which the prevailing characteristic is the inscription in raised gold letters surrounded by black or white enamel. The use of these enamelled inscriptions seems to have been introduced from France, and it is supposed was for many years the work of French workmen; the earliest enamelled inscription in this collection is of the year 1717 (No. 17); fine and exacting as is the workmanship required for these inscriptions, in a few cases more difficult tasks were accomplished, thus in Nos. 63 and 274 the shanks are formed of two separate and intertwined inscriptions, and in No. 53 the inscription  is actually enamelled within the ring.

The use of white enamel to commemorate the unmarried seems to have originated in this period, the earliest example in the following pages is the ring to Dorothy Tenison (No. 40), daughter of the Bishop of Ossory, who died at the age of 15 in 1726. A further and beautiful feature of the enamelled rings of the 18th century is the division of the ring or shank into scrolls, of which two examples are here given,

Nos. 129 and 146. The heads as a rule are still small, and where not formed of a single stone, contain crystals covering initials or a death's head. Occasionally, as in No. 66, it is shaped like a coffin, and contains a skeleton in enamel, or an urn in black enamel set with small diamonds, No. 125; perhaps the most beautiful ring of this period is No. 334, the head of which is formed by an amethyst and four rose diamonds in an openwork setting.

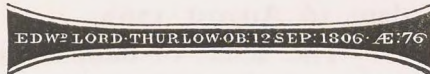

The most ornate period of rings comprises the last twenty-five years of the 18th century, the leading feature of which is the large marquise-shaped head with elaborate devices sometimes painted or worked in hair on ivory, and at times formed in gold wire, seed-pearls, ivory and enamel. These elaborate devices seem to have originated simply in the practice of enclosing hair in the head of the ring. As the head grew in size the small portion of hair was flattened and spread out, gradually taking the form of a tree; in the year 1767 alone there are four such trees formed out of hair. The next step was to introduce an urn or tomb under the tree, which became willow-shaped; and then a figure, at first female, and afterwards male, leaning over or seated by the tomb. From this point the way was open to any device that fancy might dictate, and we have, as in No. 590, an urn standing on a pedestal formed with pearls, gold and ivory, a female figure seated beside it beneath a willow, and above in the clouds a cherub, while the base of the tomb is inscribed: "Heaven has in store what thou has lost"; or with still less congruity a landscape with church, river and boat, as in No. 516.

To this period also belong rings with portraits; the silhouette on ivory of Henry Hance (No. 935), the miniature of Queen Caroline (No. 1011) and the Tassie portraits of Dr. Yonge, Bishop of Norwich (No. 655), and Edward Montague, a Master in Chancery (No. 904).

The final period of rings may be said to begin with the 19th century; its leading characteristic is the size and massive value of its products. The enamelled inscription is largely replaced by the words

"In Memory of," while the individual name is engraved inside. The large head with elaborate device again disappears, and its place is taken by a small head with enamelled coronet or initials, as in No. 968. The only new form that this period can claim to have introduced is that of the ring in form of a serpent; but as examples of these are later than the year 1837, they have not been included in this Catalogue.

III.

THE present Collection of Memorial Rings is, we believe, the first that has been made on any extensive scale, and this fact may offer some excuse for calling attention to a few rings that either in form or inscription appear of exceptional interest. No. 23 is the only example of an armorial signet ring with memorial inscription, and No. 34 also represents alone the large class of decade or rosary rings with engraved head. Of more personal interest is the Ring (No. 164) commemorating the execution of Lord Lovat on Tower Hill; the death of an old man, remarkable alike for his gifted personality and unscrupulous service and betrayal of all parties, had attracted enormous crowds, with the consequent fall of an over-burdened stand and several deaths. "The more mischief the greater sport" was the old man's comment, but before he suffered, with a keener appreciation of what was still possible, he murmured the words "Dulce et Decorum est pro patria mori" which are engraved on the ring. One example at least of the rebus ring finds a place in this collection in No. 235, where the arrangement of stones signify "Regard." The inscription on Ring No. 272 is of interest, "E Legge born 3 Sep 1670 aged 84," and refers to the Hon<sup>ble</sup> Elizabeth Legge, second daughter of Admiral Lord Dartmouth; it is only to be supposed that the ring was made in the lifetime of the elderly lady to allow of a personal distribution to her friends; her death took place six years later at the age of ninety.

It has been found that in several cases the date given on a ring does not correspond exactly with that arrived at from other sources, nor is it claimed that the ring date is always correct, indeed some instances have been noted where it is obviously at fault, as in Ring No. 756, where the date of Lady Castlehaven's death is given as 29 July 1798 instead of 31 July 1789. On the other hand, William Oswell, sometime Mayor of Shrewsbury, rests in his parish church of St. Alkmund, beneath the inscription which tells that he died 15 July 1763 (No. 661), while the Memorial Ring (No. 307) gives the correct date 16 August 1763.

The sense of national loss that overshadowed the glory of Trafalgar finds expression in the Ring that commemorates the great Admiral (No. 963), in addition to the initials N B and Trafalgar, the Ring is inscribed "Lost to his country Oct<sup>r</sup> 21st 1805," and added thereto the proud Nelson motto "Palmarum qui meruit ferat."

Of much interest too are rings that commemorate catastrophies in private life. No. 632 with its miniature of seven cherubs' heads speaks still of the Leadenhall Street fire in the City of London, by which seven small children lost their lives, and No. 918 recalls a boating accident on the lower Thames and the drowning of six persons. More terrible still was another river accident, by which a boat was wrecked at Rochester Bridge in 1816 (No. 999), and all on board, including ten children, were lost.

It will easily be understood that Memorial Rings cannot contend with wedding and engagement rings in variety of posy or motto; in early rings "Memento mori" occurs again and again, and in later times "Not lost but gone before" is most frequent; in this collection however some thirty varieties of motto have been noted; few will commend themselves to modern taste, although in conclusion we would like to dwell on the pathos of the "Remember me" of the Princess Amelia (No. 981), and call passing attention to the phoenix revelling in the flames of No. 506, with its scarcely appropriate motto: "Be ye also ready."

LIFE IS A JEST: AND ALL THINGS SHOW IT,
I THOUGHT SO ONCE: BUT NOW I KNOW IT.

OF MANNERS GENTLE, OF AFFECTIONS MILD;
IN WIT A MAN; SIMPLICITY, A CHILD:
WITH NATIVE HUMOUR TEMP'RING VIRTUOUS RAGE,
FORM'D TO DELIGHT AT ONCE AND LASH THE AGE:
ABOVE TEMPTATION, IN A LOW ESTATE,
AND UNCORRUPTED, EV'N AMONG THE GREAT;
A SAFE COMPANION, AND AN EASY FRIEND,
UNBLAM'D THRO' LIFE, LAMENTED IN THY END.
THESE ARE THY HONOURS! NOT THAT HERE THY BUST
IS MIX'D WITH HEROES, OR WITH KINGS THY DUST;
BUT THAT THE WORTHY AND THE GOOD SHALL SAY,
STRIKING THEIR PENSIVE BOSOMS—HERE LIES GAY.

A: POPE.

THE WARMEST FRIEND,
THE GENTLEST COMPANION,
THE MOST BENEVOLENT MAN;
WHO MAINTAINED
INDEPENDENCY,
IN LOW CIRCUMSTANCES OF FORTUNE;
INTEGRITY,
IN THE MIDST OF A CORRUPT AGE;
AND THAT EQUAL SERENITY OF MIND,
WHICH CONSCIOUS GOODNESS ALONE CAN GIVE,
THRO' THE WHOLE COURSE OF HIS LIFE.

FAVOURITE OF THE MUSES,
HE WAS LED BY THEM TO EVERY ELEGANT ART,
REFINED IN TASTE,
AND FRAUGHT WITH GRACES ALL HIS OWN.
IN VARIOUS KINDS OF POETRY,
SUPERIOR TO MANY,
INFERIOR TO NONE.
HIS WORKS CONTINUE TO INSPIRE,
WHAT HIS EXAMPLE TAUGHT,
CONTEMPT OF FOLLY, HOWEVER ADORNED;
DETESTATION OF VICE, HOWEVER DIGNIFIED;
REVERENCE FOR VIRTUE, HOWEVER DISGRACED.

CHARLES AND CATHERINE, DUKE AND DUCHESS OF QUEENSBERRY, WHO LOVED THIS EXCELLENT PERSON LIVING, AND REGRET HIM DEAD, HAVE CAUSED THIS MONUMENT TO BE ERECTED TO HIS MEMORY.

*Inscription on a marble monument by M. Rysbrack on the South wall

ROB: BENE ESQ:
DIED 27 MAY 1733
AGED 80.

SACRED TO THE MEMORY OF ROBERT BENE ESQ:
WHO WAS BORN AND DIED AS IS MENTIONED ON YE MARBLE
NEAR THIS PLACE WHICH COVERS HIS REMAINS.
THESE TWO PERIODS OF LIFE ARE COMMON
TO HIM AND TO ALL MEN,
BUT HE HAD MANY VIRTUES
IN WHICH HE HAD NOT MANY PARTNERS.
HIS INDUSTRY RENDERED HIM WEALTHY,
HIS INTEGRITY, LIBERALITY AND MUNIFICENCE ESTEEMED
HIS AFFECTION TO HIS FRIENDS,
AND HIS BENEVOLENCE TO ALL MEN BELOVED,
AND HIS DEATH LAMENTED.
THESE EXCELLENT QUALITIES
WHICH ADORNED HIS LIFE RECOMMENDED HIM
TO THE FAVOUR OF HIS FELLOW CITIZENS
AND HE WAS ELECTED ONE OF YE SHERIFFS
IN THE YEAR 1694,
ALDERMAN 1708, MAYOR OF THIS CITY
AND ONE OF THE REPRESENTATIVES IN PARLIAMENT 1710.
AS HIS EXAMPLE IS WORTHY IMITATION,
LET THIS SHORT BUT TRUE
REMEMBRANCE EXCITE LATEST POSTERITY
TO FOLLOW SO GOOD A PATTERN.

November 5. "At Dunkeld, in Scotland, his Grace John Murray, Duke, Marquis and Earl of Athol, Marquis and Earl of Tullibardin, Viscount Glenalmond, Lord Murray, and one of the sixteen Peers of Scotland . . ." (Gent.'s Mag., Vol. XLIV. [1774], page 542.)

John (Murray), Duke of Atholl, was the son of Lord George Murray, Lieut.-General of the forces of Prince Charles Edward, by Amelia his wife, daughter and heir of James Murray of Glencarse and Strowan; born 6 May 1729; M.P. for co. Perth 1761-64; succeeded his uncle as 3rd Duke of Atholl 8 January 1764, the House of Lords allowing his succession in spite of his father's attainder; chosen a representative Peer of Scotland in 1766 and 1768, and created K.T. 23 December 1767. He married at Dunkeld 23 October 1753, his cousin, Lady Charlotte Murray, only surviving daughter and heir of James, 2nd Duke of Atholl, by Jean his 1st wife, widow of James Lannoy (see Ring No. 30). She became, on her father's death, Baroness Strange and Sovereign of the Isle of Man, which latter sovereignty was sold to the Government in 1765. (Dictionary of National Biography, Vol. XXXIX., page 385.)

Will dated 11 October 1769, with codicil dated 30 October 1774, proved 24 March 1779, by John, Duke of Atholl, son, sole executor: "Besides John, Marquis of Tullibardine my eldest son and presumptive heir it hath pleased God to bless me with four other younger sons and with four daughters by Charlotte, Duchess of Atholl, Baroness Strange, my Wife, all now existing." £50,000 to be set aside for the benefit of such younger children. (Codicil): "My eldest son John, Marquis of Tullibardine, intending to marry I think the Sum of Fifty Thousand Pounds too large a Provision for my younger children, I hereby restrain their provision to forty thousand pounds." (Registered in books of the Lords of Session at Edinburgh 30 December 1774.)

"Sir Samuel Prime was buried in the Middle Temple Vault March 3rd 1777." (Registers of the Temple Church, London).

Sir Samuel Prime, King's Serjeant-at-Law, was the 2nd son of Thomas Prime, a grocer of Bury St Edmunds, co. Suffolk, by Jane (Childerstone) his wife. He was admitted a Pensioner of St John's College, Cambridge, 10 June 1718, aged over 16; of the Middle Temple, admitted 20 January 1720, called to the Bar 27 November 1724, Serjeant-at-Law 4 June 1736 and King's Serjeant in 1745. He was knighted 23 November 1745, as a representative of the Bar, on their presenting an address to the king on the suppression of the rebellion. He married 23 August 1748, Hannah, widow of John Sheppard of Ash Hall, co. Suffolk, and daughter of Robert Wilmott of Banstead, co. Surrey, by Hannah his wife, daughter of Joseph Chaplin of London (see 29 March 1797). After retiring from the Bar, Sir Samuel Prime lived in the house that formerly belonged to Sir Godfrey Kneller at Whitton in Twickenham, co. Middlesex, where he died. William Cole describes him as "a very handsome tall man but so immensely proud that it was disgusting to everyone" (Add. MSS., 5878, fo. 776).

TO THE MEMORY OF DAVID GARRICK
 WHO DIED IN THE YEAR 1779
 AT THE AGE OF 63.
 TO PAINT FAIR NATURE, BY DIVINE COMMAND,
 HER MAGIC PENCIL IN HIS GLOWING HAND,
 A SHAKESPEARE ROSE—THEN TO EXPAND HIS FAME, WIDE O’ER THIS “BREATHING WORLD,” A GARRICK CAME.
 THOUGH SUNK IN DEATH THE FORMS THE POET DREW,
 THE ACTOR’S GENIUS BADE THEM BREATHE ANEW:
 THOUGH, LIKE THE BARD HIMSELF IN NIGHT THEY LAY, IMMORTAL GARRICK CALL’D THEM BACK TO DAY: AND TILL ETERNITY WITH POWER SUBLIME,
 SHALL MARK THE MORTAL HOUR OF HOARY TIME,
 SHAKESPEARE AND GARRICK LIKE TWIN STARS SHALL SHINE,

HE WAS OF THE MIDDLE STATURE, OF
A BENIGN & COMELY COUTENANCE
EXPRESSIVE OF HIS MIND
WHICH WAS ACTIVE, AMIABLE & GENEROUS.
IN YOUTH HE WAS DISPOS'D TO SEEK FOR HONOUR
IN THE ONLY TRUE FIELD OF GLORY
HIS COUNTRY'S DEFENCE,
BUT HIS DESIRES WERE LIMMIT'D
BY PATERNAL TENDERNESS,
HOWEVER IN THE YEAR 1745 HE ACCEPTED
A CAPTAIN'S COMMISSION UNDER EARL BERKELEY, TO AID IN REPRESSING AN UNPROVOK'D REBELLION,
AND PROVE HIS DUTY TO HIS SOVEREIGN & COUNTRY
IN THIS HE FOLLOW'D THOSE PATHS
HIS MAGNANIMOUS PROGENITORS
HAD TROD.
WHEN REBELLION WAS SUPPRESS'D HE RETIRED
& MADE ALL AROUND HIM HAPPY IN THE CHARACTER
OF A LIBERAL, BENEVOLENT COUNTRY GENTLEMAN.
HE WAS POSSESS'D OF TRUE CHRISTIAN VIRTUE
AND RESIGNATION JOIN'D WITH MANLY FORTITUDE
EXEMPLIFIED IN LIFE & DEATH.

THROUGH ALL THE SUFFERINGS OF A LONG
AND PAINFULL ILLNESS, HE WELL SUPPORTED
A DIGNITY OF CHARACTER, AND RECTITUDE OF HEART.
THAT HEART, WAS INTEGRITY ITSELF;
HIS JUDGEMENT WAS STRONG,
HIS MANNERS WERE GENTLE.
THE TENDEREST HUSBAND,
THE TRUEST FRIEND,
THE KINDEST MASTER.
READER THIS CHARACTER IS DRAWN

Huntingdon, near my late wife. "No Rings be given but to my Children." "And if it shall be thought proper that a Monument should be hereafter erected to my memory I desire the price (if it may be) may not exceed Fifty Pounds, and be so contrived as to serve for me and my late dear Wife, with a suitable Epitaph for her who discharged every social and relative duty with great honour and credit, and was a sincere Christian without Enthusiasm." Brother William Foster, gent. Daughters Susannah, Harriet and Elizabeth Foster. Nephew John Foster, son of my brother John Foster of Elton, co. Huntingdon, D.D. "To each of my Sisters ten pounds for Mourning, and if my Sisters would not wish to fall a prey and sacrifice to some worthless wretch who would only endeavour to marry them for their money, if they have any regard for their father's or my advice they will continue to live single. I expressly forbid any of my daughters to marry any first cousin." "I direct that all mine & my wife's Letters to each other be delivered if in being at my death unopened to my daughter Susanna Foster, to be disposed of as she pleases, which after read will I presume be into the Fire as their properest place. I have reason to believe both my Reports & my crown Law Manuscripts would sell well to a Bookseller."

Translated 18 January 1782.

"Last night (Jan. 18), about half past eleven o'clock, a fire broke out at Mr Woodmason's, stationer, in Leadenhall Street, which entirely consumed the same, with the warehouse backwards, stock in trade, household furniture, &c. and greatly damaged two other houses; the fire began in the second story forwards; and burnt very rapidly until three o'clock this morning, owing to a scarcity of water. We are sorry to add, that the nursery maid and seven children, the eldest under nine years of age, are missing, and supposed to have perished in the flames." ("The London Chronicle," Saturday, 19 January 1782.)

In the absence of her husband, who had gone with some friends to see the company in the ball-room at St James', Mrs Woodmason, with her nursery-maid, paid her usual visit to all the children at half-past ten. Five slept in the nursery in the front of the house and two in the room above; all were asleep but the eldest, whom she kissed and spoke to. A little later, a maid, who had been ordered to put a rushlight in Mrs Woodmason's bedroom, immediately under the nursery, set fire to the bed hangings and shrieking as she ran down stairs, was joined by her mistress. They opened the street-door with difficulty but all attempts to reach the children were defeated by smoke and flame. Mrs Woodmason fainted away and was taken to a house near. (From a long account in "The London Chronicle" of 22 January 1782.)

They were buried at St Peter's, Cornhill, London, 23 January 1782.

April 23. "Rt. Rev. Dr. Philip Yonge, lord bishop of Norwich, in his 73d year. His lordship received his education at Westminster school, and Trinity Coll. Cambridge, of which he was fellow. In 1741 Mr. Yonge was a candidate against Dr. Tunstall for the office of public orator of that university; which he lost after a smart struggle, but was afterwards chosen when Dr. Tunstall resigned on being made chaplain to Abp. Potter. He was, in 1752, promoted to the mastership of Jesus College by Bp. Gooch (at the D. of Newcastle's desire), and afterwards (being one of his late majesty's chaplains) was successively prebendary of Westminster, canon residentiary of St Paul's, bishop of Bristol 1758, and of Norwich 1761. All these preferments he owed to the late D. of Newcastle, whose duchess he conducted from Hanover to England. In the same year he married Miss Anne Bewicke, of Clapham, by whom he had no issue. By his lordship's death the Church loses a truly learned and Christian bishop; society a most amiable and useful member; his family and friends a man endowed with every domestic virtue, for rendering him highly valuable and respected whilst living, and deservedly lamented in his death." (Gent's Mag., Vol. LIII. [1783], part i., page 452.)

Will dated 13 August 1771, with three codicils dated respectively 26 August 1778, 9 October 1778 and 23 October 1781, proved 30 April 1783, by Mary Yonge, widow: "I Philip, Lord Bishop of Norwich," give all my estate to my wife Ann Yonge and her heirs, and make her sole executrix. (1st Codicil): In event of my wife's death my personal estate to be divided equally among my brother Henry Yonge, nephew Henry Yonge, nephew Philip, niece Frances Simpson, and my nephew William John Yonge of St James' Place, Westminster, my executor, "whom I desire and command to burn all my sermons and other writings whatsoever." (2nd Codicil): "My dear brother being dead" my property to be divided into four instead of five parts to the above mentioned four children of my brother by his first wife. (3rd Codicil): "My dear Nephew Philip being dead" his share to go to his children.

(Gent's Mag., Vol. LIX., part i., page 281.)

"The most illustrious Prince Thomas Osborne, Duke of Leeds, Marquess of Carmarthen, Earl of Danby, Viscount Latimer and Dunblaine, Baron of Kiveton and Baronet, and Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, departed this life March the 23rd 1789, and was interred April the 7th in the same year. Æt. 75." (Registers of Harthill, co. York.)

Thomas, Duke of Leeds, K.G., was the son of Peregrine Hyde, Duke of Leeds, by Elizabeth his 1st wife, daughter of Robert (Harley), 1st Earl of Oxford, Lord High Treasurer. He was born 6 November 1713, and succeeded his father as 4th Duke 9 April 1731; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford, being created D.C.L. 1733; became F.R.S. in 1739, and was elected K.G. 22 June 1749, and Privy Councillor in 1757. He married at St Martin's-in-the-Fields, Westminster, 26 June 1740, Mary, daughter and coheir of Francis, Earl of Godolphin, by his wife, Henrietta, Duchess of Marlborough, eldest daughter and coheir of the great Duke; she died 3 August, and was buried at Harthill 12 August 1764.

Will dated 3 November 1784, with codicil dated 15 November 1786, proved 22 April 1789, by Francis, Duke of Leeds: "I Thomas, Duke of Leeds, Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter." Son Francis, Baron Osborne of Kiveton, co. York, commonly called Marquis of Carmarthen, sole executor. To Juliana, Countess of Portman, 100 guineas to buy her a Ring. My best mourning brilliant diamond Ring to my said son and my sapphire Ring set round with diamonds to my grand-daughter, Lady Mary Osborne, and my ruby Ring with four brilliants to John Jackson of Red Lion Square, co. Middlesex. I desire that my body may be interred at Harthill amongst the remains of my ancestors, and that my executor will take care that my funeral may be in every respect as exactly like to the funeral of my wife, the late Duchess of Leeds, as it possibly can be. Grandson George William Frederick, Earl of Danby, grand-daughter Lady Mary Henrietta Juliana Osborne, grandson Lord Francis Osborne.

1791. "June 14th Charles Bissett, M.D., Knayton." (Register of burials, Leake, co. York).

June 14. "At Knayton, near Thirsk, in his 75th year, Dr. Charles Bisset, a physician of considerable literary fame, as well as extensive and successful practice in the Northern part of the county of York, by which he had obtained an ample fortune. Though he was bred to physick, being a spirited young man, he obtained a commission in a new regiment, raised in 1742, and served in Flanders during that war. He was distinguished so particularly for his knowledge in engineering, acquired merely by his ingenuity, that his late Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland placed him in the line of engineers. Being at the siege of Bergen-op-Zoom, he was frequently observed to walk on the ramparts with unconcern amidst the enemy's shot, the more narrowly to observe the situation of French attacks. He was reduced to half-pay at the subsequent peace, and settled as a physician in Yorkshire, where he practised physick ever since, with much reputation for his success and humanity." (Gent's Mag., Vol. LXI., part i., page 588.)

Charles Bisset was the son of Charles Bisset, a lawyer of Glenalbert, near Dunkeld, co. Perth. After studying medicine at Edinburgh, he served as a military and naval surgeon in the West Indies 1740-45, but in May 1746 received a commission as Ensign in the 43rd Highlanders, and in 1747 was appointed Engineer Extraordinary. He was created M.D. of St Andrew's in 1766, and published several medical books in addition to his treatises on fortification. ("Dictionary of National Biography," Vol. V., page 99.)

Will dated 17 March 1790, proved at York 11 August 1791, by Ann Bisset, wife, Francis Hutchinson and James Coates, the executors: Charles Bisset of Knayton in the county of York, Doctor in Physic. My lands at Knayton unto my wife Ann Bisset for life; after her decease unto the Rev. Daniel Addison of Thirsk, clerk, and Patience his wife and her heirs; and in default to William Walker of Thirsk, gent, and Margaret his wife and her heirs. To my two nephews Lieutenant James Bisset of the Navy, and Ensign Robert Bisset, £100 each. To Ann and Jean, the two daughters of my late cousin Jean Stewart, who was sister to the late James Robertson of Auchnagee, £20 each. To Alexander, Ann and Jean, the son and daughters of the said James Robertson, £20 each. To my said nephew James Bisset my silver hilted sword, my MS. book on fortification, and also a copy of my book on the "Theory and Construction of Fortification," both bound in red Turkey. To the poor of Knayton and Borrowby £50. Executors: wife Anne, Francis Hutchinson of Maunby, esquire, and James Coates of Stokesley, co. York, gent, £30 each for their trouble. Residue of personal estate to my wife, but if she die in my lifetime in trust to pay to Thomas Flintoff of Guisborough, surgeon, £200, and divide the remainder equally between said Margaret Walker, Patience Addison and Self Pease of Darlington, my said wife's nieces.

November 2. "At Brompton, Miss Percy, in the contemplation of Nature, though not of Law, the undoubted daughter of the late Duke of Northumberland, and of course half-sister to the present Duke and the Earl of Beverley. She died in consequence of grief for her sister, whose death is recorded in our vol. LXI., p. 1068. These sisters, lovely in their persons, and dignified in their manners, received an education, under the fullest private sanction of their fond and most noble father, suitable to their high birth and fortune, in the convent of Panthemont at Paris. Afterward, in the bosom of retirement, in the exercise of elegant accomplishments, but still more in the practice of the most rational piety, and the most angelic benevolence, they passed their happiest hours: nor was their bounty scattered with a thoughtless hand; for, they added to every blessing they bestowed by a due discrimination of its object, and by pursuing modest Poverty to its most wretched recesses. This scene of happiness (for to them the gay and dissipating world, on a very delicate account, had never any charms) was first blasted by the death of the elder Miss Percy in 1791; and her sister endured for these last three years the slowly consuming ravages of that most painful of all poisons—grief—with almost unexampled resignation." who died 5 Aug<sup>t</sup> 1793 Aged 61.

August 5. "At Staindrop, co. Durham, in his 61st year, John Lee, esq. M.P. for Higham-Ferrers, and formerly attorney-general. Mr. L. (known, when at the bar, by the name of Honest Jack Lee) has left an immense fortune, which there is, we believe, no near relation to inherit. One place has become vacant by his death, that of attorney-general of the county palatine of Lancaster. He was appointed solicitor general to the King, first, upon Mr. Mansfield's promotion, in 1782, and, secondly, upon Sir Rich. Arden's removal, in 1783. In the latter year he was appointed attorney-general, upon the death of Mr. Wallace." (Gent's Mag., Vol. LXIII., part ii., page 772.)

John Lee was admitted to Gray's Inn as of Leeds, co. York, gentleman, 21 January 1751, and to Lincoln's Inn 20 November 1754. He married 24 October 1789, Mary Hutchinson of Staindrop, co. Durham, and the same year became Recorder of Doncaster. He became a K.C. in 1780, and in 1782 he was Solicitor-General from April to November, and again for the same period in 1783, and was Attorney-General from 22 November to 26 December 1783. He was M.P. for Clitheroe 20 April 1782, and again in April 1784, and for Higham Ferrers 31 December 1790 until his death. He left issue an only daughter, Mary Tabitha Lee. November 12. "In her 76th year, Mrs. Jackson, wife of John J. esq. one of the aldermen of the city of Canterbury. Her constitution naturally infirm, but more impaired by repeated illnesses, had rendered her incapable, for many years, of mixing with society from home; yet she was not, on this account, deserted by a most respectable number of friends, who daily endeavoured to lessen the tedious hours of confinement. There needs no pompous panegyric to say, that her life was valuable; and every other encomium may centre in adding, that, as her ears were always open to the voice of Distress, and promotion of public good, her heart and her hand went together for benevolent and charitable purposes. She has left, to regret her loss, a most indulgent husband, whose longer protracted years, it is to be hoped, will not be embittered by any future calamity." Rev<sup>d</sup> Geo. Hunter MA ob 9 June 1796 Æt 35.

"A few days ago, died at Bath, after a tedious illness, the Rev. George Hunter, Fellow of Christ's College, B.A. 1783, M.A. 1786." ("Cambridge Chronicle," Saturday, 18 June 1796.)

The Rev. George Hunter was the 2nd son of John Hunter of Medomsley, co. Durham, by Elizabeth his wife, daughter and coheir of Timothy Whittingham, and was born 12 January 1761. His elder brother was John Hunter of Medomsley and the Hermitage, near Hexham, co. Durham (see 21 September 1822).

Christ College, Cambridge, Dec<sup>r</sup> 13, 1795.

Dear Brother.—In full Persuasion there is no solid Comfort on this Side of the Grave I am ever ready to resign my Breath into the Hands of Him that gave it, trusting that he "will be Merciful to me a Sinner." I have made no Will knowing it to be unnecessary, but have written upon this Sheet some Particulars which I wish you to attend to when I die, having Confidence in you for fulfilling my desire with equal strictness as if it had the force of Law. When it shall please my Creator to call me hence it is my desire to be buried at the East End of Swasey Church in the Church Yard if I die in Cambridgeshire, if at or near the Hermitage in the North East Corner of St John lee Church Yard; if elsewhere, where the Tree falls there let it lie. I next desire that you will burn all my Sermons. I desire also that you will present Rings to the Persons whose Names are mentioned in the second Page of this Sheet. I further desire that you will pay the Sums of Money mentioned in the third and fourth Pages, and God of his infinite Mercy grant you and yours all the Comfort this World can afford and a joyfull Meeting hereafter with your affectionate Brother,

GEORGE HUNTER.

On a marble monument now in the triforium of the Temple Church, London.

969. Gold, head set with hair, surrounded by white enamel, outside which is a row of small pearls. Engraved at back of head:

Lady Hesketh ob. 15 Jan. 1807, Æ. 74.

January 15. "At Clifton, near Bristol, much regretted, Lady Hesketh, eldest daughter of Ashley Cowper, esq. formerly clerk of the Parliaments, and widow of Sir Thomas H. bart. of Rufford-hall, co. Lancaster. She was the lady to whom so many of the letters of Cowper the poet are addressed, to whom she was a cousin, and for many years one of his few companions." (Gent's Mag., Vol. LXXVII., part i., page 94.)

Harriet Cowper was the daughter and coheir of Ashley Cowper, Clerk of the Parliaments, brother of Dr John Cowper, Rector of Berkhamsted, co. Hertford, father of the poet William Cowper, and was baptised at Hertingfordbury, co. Hertford, 12 July 1733. Her husband, Thomas Hesketh of Rufford, co. Lancaster, was created a baronet 5 May 1761, and died without issue 4 March 1778.

Will with codicils dated 20 November 1800—22 November 1806, proved 27 February 1807, by the Rev. Geoffrey Hornby and Joseph Hill, esquire: "I Harriet Hesketh, widow, now of Clifton," co. Gloucester. Those worldly goods for which under God I am almost wholly indebted to the kind liberality of my late dear husband, Sir Thomas Hesketh, baronet, of Rufford in the County Palatine of Lancaster. To my sister Theodora Jane Cowper the miniature picture of our late dear father, enamelled by Zinks. My late husband's great-nephew Sir Thomas Hesketh, baronet, of Rufford, and his sisters, Charlotte, wife of the Hon<sup>ble</sup> and Rev. Edmund Knox, Dorothea Shiers, Lucy Hesketh, Harriet Anne Despard, wife of Major-General Despard, commanding at Cape Breton, and Jesse Lethbridge, wife of Thomas Lethbridge, junior, esquire. My sister Lady Croft, widow of Sir Archer Croft, baronet. I desire to be buried in the vault with my parents in the burying ground behind S. Audley Church; if I am taken from the world at Bath, either at Weston or in the Abbey; if at Clifton in the usual burying-place. (1st Codicil): To Lady Hesketh the blood stone medallion set in gold, with the pictures of the King and Queen, given to me by her Majesty. To M<sup>rs</sup> Maria Cowper, wife of Henry Cowper, esquire, the painting in water-colours by Miss C. Fanshaw, representing a shepherd boy, and from Cowper's beautiful poem called "Retirement." To Charles Cowper, esquire, of Albany Place, two silver beer cups given to me by his uncle the late General Cowper. To William Hayley, esquire, "the Ivory Sarcophagus which I brought from Rome, and which will be valuable to him as having been for some years in the possession of his beloved friend the Author of the Task." To the Rev. Dr Johnson of Wenham, co. Norfolk, the tried and affectionate friend of my late dear cousin, the seal given to me by the Princess Elizabeth, representing M<sup>r</sup> Cowper's three favourite horses. 22 January 1806. (2nd Codicil): 4 February 1806. (3rd Codicil): 20 November 1806. (4th Codicil): 22 November 1806.
